INTERESTING CARMEL

Interesting things about Carmel

Herbert Heron loves books. You can tell by the way he handles them and talks of them and he knows what he is talking about for he has supplied the wants of the peninsula people in his line for the past fifteen years. He has called his store the Seven Arts Book Store and when he built a building especially to house his books, he called it the Seven Arts Building. Five thousand books line his shelves, from the cheap, popular novel to the rare first editions. We asked Mr. Heron what he considered his most precious book and he made no hesitation in saying the first edition of Stevenson's Treasure Island. "The scenes in Treasure Island are no doubt lain in and around the bay and Point Lobos," said Mr. Heron. "Stevenson wrote this book in '81 and he spent the years '78 and '79 here. His descriptions tally with these points."

An interesting thing which scores for Carmel is that you may get any book you desire here at the same price you would pay your New York dealer, or any book store in San Francisco. And if you want to browse around in books, Heron's is a good place.

The dancers stayed until one o'clock, and judging from the expressions heard on every side, they will all be back for the next dance to be given April 7. The High Hatters will again furnish the music.

LONG BEACH FRIEND WRITES OF EARTHQUAKE

The Carmel Sun is passing on to its readers this week a letter from a dear friend in Long Beach.

March 11, 1933

The day after the quake. Well, this is the awfullest thing I've ever been in—death destruction and fear. We are all safe and unhurt in any way. Of course all our dishes are broken and pictures ruined. The town is almost in ruins. All the brick buildings are crumbled or crumbling. The radio station is carrying on bravely with two sides of the building out. I dread the night. We sat in the car most of last night, then we brought in a small army of people who stayed through the night. The tremors occured all through the night and all day, in fact there is one right now. We had a report that there was a tidal wave coming up the coast from San Diego and the police made all the people in Belmont Shore get out and on higher ground. We are up rather high here so we just stayed at home. All the vacant lots are full of beds and a few tents and last night was a cold night and the fog was terrible. People were without any place to go. Oh, it is awful. Over five pneumonia cases are being rushed to the hospital every hour.

Our house is cracked all over and we have no gas or heat of any kind. We fixed a wood fire outside in an old tub and there we cook. That's what everyone is doing all over town. The radio works all right and the electric lights, so I can percolate coffee and make toast all right. And now we are warned not to drink water unless we boil it twenty minutes, or put five drops of iodine into every quart. We are boiling up quarts of water now.

Our poor little birds. We keep them in the car with us wherever we go. They don't know what it is all about.

You should have seen my kitchen—a half gallon of honey on the floor, with cocoa and salt and bird gravel and a foot of broken dishes. And the bathroom! A large bottle of hair oil, large bottle of waving fluid and toilet water mixed generously with soot from the heatr and nothing but cold water to clean up that mess this morning.

MISS MINNIE PIERCE PASSED AWAY FRIDAY

After a long illness, Miss Minnie Pierce passed away Friday at her home at Lincoln and Eighth. Funeral services were conducted in Paul's Undertaking Parlors in Pacific Grove Wednesday at 2 o'clock, the Rev. T. Harold Grimshaw, assisted by Rev. A. B. Chinn officiating.

Sympathy for the bereaved ones was expressed in the mass of beautiful floral offerings.

The body was shipped to Santa Cruz for interment.

MRS. RENDTORFF'S FINAL WORD

(Political Advertisement)

It is with considerable satisfaction that the side I represent in this campaign has read Mr. Ewig's recent restatement of his platform. It gives us the assurance that the principles which we have upheld for some years and the policies we have advocated have been fully accepted by the other side, and that Mr. Newberry's statement "the differences between the two factions are more fanciful than real" can now be said to have come true.

Briefly restating Mr. Ewig's platform, we find first his pledge for economy. My side has always urged economy and decried what has seemed to them unnecessary waste, and I expressed my stand on this matter in my statement of February 1. I must, however, add here that I am not willing to make as definite a pledge as Mr. Ewig does regarding the lowering of salaries "right down the line." The readjustment and lowering of salaries must be based on a careful examination of salary conditions here and elsewhere in the state.

The second promise is "The best possible modern, public school, but no private school." That is exactly what my side has stood for, not only during this campaign, but also for years past.

The third promise is "Open public meetings of the school board with all records available for examination at any time." As is well known, this also has been wished for, in fact, demanded, by my supporters during the last two years. And surely nothing could please us more than to see the board meetings "conducted in a fair but businesslike manner."

Mr. Ewig finally maintains that "Americanization in its best meaning is the intent and purpose of the school and its curriculum." This, too, meets with our hearty approval. If the traditional American ideals of democracy, of equal opportunity and fair play for everyone are to continue in the future, we must strengthen those ideals in the children who are in our schools today.

That our opponents have thus agreed on a platform which recognizes and embodies practically all of the demands made by my side is a great step in advance toward that harmony which ought to prevail in school matters from now on. Whatever the outcome of the election may be, the candidate elected should have the sincere support of the community. Differences of opinion on certain matters will doubtless persist but a sincere desire to understand the opponent's viewpoint, and to do justice to sincere and intelligent objections that may arise, will pave the way toward a true cooperation on both sides.

And what about the election? It has resolved itself into a question of candidates mainly. We must trust the voters to decide which one is better fitted to really carry out the platform and uphold the high standards of the school. Of course, if the main issue of the election should turn on the question raised in the advertisement in the Pine Cone of March 24: "WHAT! Not ONE Man on Our School Board? Not even ONE business man?" I certainly could not win the election.

But if I were a man or "even a business man" I would not be in accord with all the points brought forth in that advertisement. For are we really willing to subscribe to the sentiment expressed in the following paragraph of that advertisement: "The school which pleases the majority of progressive parents of a resort town is the sure anchor of property values and renting demand. Even a childless home must admit the truth of this." A fine public school is doubtless the most valuable asset for any community, but I object strongly to having it commercialized.

EMMA E. RENDTORFF.

JUDGE AND MRS. CLARK CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Married: Charles Clark, native of Natchez, Miss., and Miss Emma Elizabeth Fowler, native of New Orleans, La., in San Francisco, March 28, 1877.

And Tuesday, March 28, 1933, at their home in Carmel, Judge and Mrs. Clark celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary. Since 1907, they have made their home in Carmel and have scores of friends who are congratulating them and wishing them many happy returns of the day.

Four children came to bless the Clark home. The oldest son is a cotton expert for the government and is living in Mobile, Ala., the other two boys are in Dallas, Tex., and Austin, Texas, respectively, and Miss Margaret is at home.

Both Judge and Mrs. Clark are in splendid health and enjoy their home and friends.

WRECKS CAR ON TREE; TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Losing control of his car and smashing into a tree near the Dr. Cluen home, Guy Lilliencrantz of Aptos was taken to Carmel hospital Tuesday night suffering from lacerations. He left for his home Wednesday.

The car was badly damaged.

CARMEL WILL HEAR FOSTER GLEE CLUB

There is a treat in store for the people of Carmel in the coming of the Foster Glee club to the Community Church next Sunday night at eight o'clock. There will be no admission charge, but a silver offering will be taken.

The director, Fenton P. Foster, has prepared a program which has never been offered here and which will be very much appreciated.

Marie Campbell De Reimer, a contralto, is the guest soloist and will sing two songs composed by Ruth Bingamann Herman, who will also play her accompaniments.

The glee club is entirely made up of peninsula talent, and always draws a large crowd on their appearances here.

WHY CARMEL SUN IS LATE

Owing to the installation of our new press and the rush of job work, Carmel Sun was a few hours late in the post office.

We are sorry for the delay but are sure intelligent people will understand unavoidable delays which may occur in any undertaking.

Miss Doris Volland and a friend from Berkeley are occupying a cottage on Camino Real for a short time.

Have You the Chain Store Habit?

"I just never got in the habit of trading at a chain store," said a prominent Carmel man. "I have alpays wanted to feel that the things I eat are the best obtainable on the market, and whether the chain stores have seconds, or even thirds I don't know but I can't feel that I am getting first class goods when I pay less than a reasonable price. Someone or something must suffer."

Someone or something must suffer. So say we all. If it is someone, do we want to help in beating down our brothers? If it is some thing, do we want to take the consequences ourselves of short weights, shelf-worn goods, poor quality. Can we afford to offer such things to our loved ones?

It is charged that in a sister city, chain-store ridden, at least four more workers would be required in the banks if all the stores were independently owned.

One clerk can do a lot toward caring for the banking account of a store which simply deposits one day and mails out a check for the full amount next day.

Read Carmel Sun's ads from independent merchants. They are fighting against big trusts which can crush them and throw their clerks out of jobs, unless the people themselves realize this menace to our country,

The independent stores make the town. But when the town is built up, the Big Boy steps in and takes the cream. The American sense of fairness does not approve of "muscling in."

POST OFFICE BUILDING IN CARMEL IS DELAYED

From dispatches from Washington, it appears that the purchase of a site for the Carmel post office and erection of the building will be delayed for some time, or until the president completes his plan for the refinancing of the federal building construction program.

According to Postmaster W. L. Overstreet, this positively does not mean abandonment of the project and the work will proceed eventually.

In the meantime, at the expiration of the lease on the present postoffice property, rental will be paid on the monthly basis.

SPORTS NEWS of the WEEK

Abalone League

By Doc Staniford

Sunday, March 26, 1933

Ideal baseball weather prevailed in today's games and some of the most interesting and best played games took place. The league leading Giants were licked in the first game. It started off in a slam bang style. Both teams were given air tight pitching and great support. The Giants started their drive in the fourth and piled over four runs and looked like sure winners. The Shamrocks in their turn at bat did not seem particularly dangerous and often two were out and a couple of runners on the paths. The next batter appeared to be an easy one but a poor throw to first base paved the way for three runs for the Shamrocks. Art Hilbert pitched shutout ball for the rest of the game. The last drive the Giants made was in the sixth but great playing on the part of the Shamrocks prevented the Giants from scoring. When the Shamrocks came to bat in the final half of the seventh inning with one out, Roy Goodrich covered himself with glory, by knocking out a home run deep into left field and with a couple more hits then the winning run, proving that the old ball game is never over until the last man is out. Final score. Shamrocks, 5 Giants 4.

Del Monte and Manzanita club played a hard fought game which was anybody's game until the end of the game. The Manzanita club should have won, but poor base running and failing to take advantage of the other team's mistakes cost them the game. The Del Monte pitcher was the target for much argument over his questionable delivery and this matter should be corrected. The umpires have been very fair in their judgment by allowing too much leeway with this particular team and in the future this will be corrected I am sure. The Del Monte team is a new team in the Abalone league and will have to observe this rule. The Del Monte team started off in the lead with three runs in the first canto but the Manzanita club came right back in the last half of the second inning with four runs. In the sixth, Del Monte added three runs but Manzanita club came right back with two more runs which evened up the score six-all. In the first half of the 7th Del Monte squeezed over one more run and Manzanita failed to score their last chance at bat so the final score was Del Monte 7, Manzanita club 6. Ivan Kelsey pitched a good game and with better support from his team mates things might have been different.

At the Point

The games at the Point were close games also. Very unusual all games should be so hard fought and low scores. The Country Club made up of a makeshift outfit surprised the strong Polo Club by winning from them by a score of 7-4. High winds made fly balls very difficult to judge and foul balls were impossible to catch at all. Doc Slipner made some great catches in left field for the Polo outfit and Winsor Josselyn made his first appearance in a Country Club uniform. He played a great game in left field garden. T. Myomoto pitched a nice game and also did well at the bat. Jerry Thines played well at 1st base and so did Geo. Marsh, a new recruit at 3rd base.

The Pilots beat the Tigers 3 to 2. It was a pitching duel between Ed Files of the Pilots and Freddie Ammerman of the Tigers. Files got better support and that about just tells the story of the game. It was a hard fought contest from beginning to the bitter end and the final outcome was not decided until extra innings had been played. Close plays were numerous and umpires were called upon to make tough decisions. To please everybody is a hard job so let's give the umpires a break. Waldo Hicks made a wonderful catch of a sure home run and saved his team from defeat. Bill Staniford was all over the field grabbing flies from all angles and Pandy Parker gave a wonderful exhibition of fielding at shortstop. This was the first time two south-paws have opposed each other this season and it proved that left handers are awfully hard to hit when right and Ed Files did well against a seasoned veteran like Ammerman. On Saturday April 1 the Polo and Del Monte clubs will play off a postponed game at the Point at 2:30 p. m. This should be a great game and a big crowd is expected to be on hand to see these teams play.

"FLESH" AT CARMEL THEATRE NEXT WEEK

Although "Grand Hotel" is now history, Wallace Beery tarries at scene of his triumph in "Flesh" his new Metro Goldwyn Mayer picture which comes to the Carmel Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday April 4 and 5.

Like "Grand Hotel", this gripping drama of the wrestling ring opens in Germany. But where the whole of the former story was laid in that country, "Flesh", eventually brings Beery back to America where he finds the heartaches and joys of winning a worlds championship.

The story's wrestling atmosphere invites a comparison between sports in other countries and the attitude of commercial promoters here. Starting as a wrestling waiter in a beer garden, Beery wins the championship of Germany, but when he crosses the Atlantic in quest of larger honors he runs afoul of conditions which smack of the well known "racket."

Beery has to fight his way to a square deal, even at the hands of Karen Morley and Ricardo Cortez, who have the leading roles in the support of the star. Others of note in the cast are Jean Hersholt, John Miljan, Vince Barnett, Herman Bing and Greta Meyers.

John Ford, of "Arrowsmith" fame directed "Flesh" which was adapted from an original story by Edmund Goulding, who, incidentally directed Beery in "Grand Hotel."

The tournament will be played in flights of eight in three rounds as follows:

CARMEL BOYS AMONG SCOUT HONOR ROLL

The following was taken from the Monterey Herald concerning the Scout meeting held in Monterey Friday night.

Hard won honors were bestowed upon a large number of the peninsula,s Boy Scouts in the presence of nearly 400 apreciative parents, relatives and friends at the district court of honor held last nigh in the new home of the American Legion on Jefferson street.

Carmel Martin, chairman of the district court of honor committee, presided. Ira M. Bartlow, secretary of the Legion's Boy Scout troop committee, welcomed the visitors in behalf of the Legion, after which tenderfoot, second class and first class badges were conferred in an impressive ritual evolved by Sheldon Gilmer, Pacific Grove Scout leader.

Holman Cup Awarded

Martin announced award to Troop 77, sponsored by the Presbyterian church, of the silver cup offered by W. R. Holman to the troop represented by the largest number of parents and friends at the court of honor. Troops 79 and 86 placed second and third. The cup must be won three times to become the permanent possession of a troop.

A feature of the evening was the presentation to George Dorwart, Carmel Eagle Scout, of the silver palm, highest honor in scouting, the award being presented by Hurd Comstock of Carmel. Dorwart was also presented, with a speech of commendation by Martin with a five year veteran's badge in scouting.

Howard Fitzimmons of Pacific Grove troop, who qualified some time ago for Eagle Scout honors, received his ensignia last night from the hands of Ed Simpson, district council chairman.

Simpson also announced formation of a new scout area council, consisting of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties, with headquarters at Salinas.

Hiller Amstein, master of Troop 77, whose members carried off the lon's share of the awards, was also the recipient of especial commendation.

Practical demonstration of scouting methods followed the awards.

Mrs. Dan Coon of Carmel Woods was among those who assisted at the Legion dance in Monterey Saturday night. She helped in the sale of sandwiches.

Thrills Galore in "Ladies of the Jury"

By Dolly Hammond

Her heavily painted mouth is a smear of pain, the lips writhing uncontrollably as she strives to fight back the mounting wave of hysteria that threatens to engulf her. Her dark eyes are wells of agony, staring, staring as though to pierce the walls of that locked room where twelve men and women are met to decide her fate. Life or—death! And in that room are twelve personalities of widely divergent backgrounds, racial characteristics, emotions, desires. A strange, heterogeneous company thrown together willy-nilly, reacting on each other like violently conflicting chemicals. There is a jazz baby and an Italian sheik, a young bride from the deep South whose only thought is for her idolized husband. How he will live, without her to open his mail or bake his saleratus biscuits? There is a Scotch gardener with an unctuous Harry Lauder dialect and a pocketbook fastened with lock-nuts. There is a poet, braceleted and precious, quoting lyrically from the classics and already engrossed in a sprouting love affair with the naive, mousy young thing who sits beside him in the jury box. There is a small town house-wife, precise and prudish, illogical and irritating. There is the foreman of the jury—a moneyed bigot, whose moral standards came over in the Mayflower and the quality of whose mercy has been strained to the vanishing point. AND—there is the very queen of jury-women, wealthy society leader (genus New Jersey) aggravating, ingratiating, humorless but screamingly funny as she goes about the business of getting her own way. It is she who—but that would be telling, wouldn't it? However, this character, Mrs. Crane, is to be played by no other than Helen Ware! And if you think you know your Broadway and yet don't know your Helen Ware, then you don't know Broadway. Until she came to Carmel to live, her name in electric lights helped to make the White Way white, year after year. If she can't make you laugh then you have depressionitis in its most acute form. In "Ladies of the Jury," which will be played by a completely local cast at the Community Playhouse, on the nights of March 30, 31 and April 1, our Helen will be seen at her best. 'Nuff sed!

Mrs. Etta Stackpole has been confined to her bed for the past three days by a very severe cold. Miss Andrews is looking after her store in her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McKinsey and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Osborne of King City were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy at San Antonio and Eighth.

LIBRARY News Notes

During the month of March a variety of new books have been added to the children's collection. For the younger readers there is a lovely story about Stumpy, a venturesome chipmonk, and two adorable new ones by Mary and Margaret Baker, who delighted the small people with their Peacock Eggs. Patsy and the Leprechauns and Lost Meraby were written by Margaret, while Mary has illustrated them with the most entrancing silhouettes. Then there is the story of Flyaway Flippety, a baby stork, and his adventures as he travels south to spend his first winter in Egypt.

Children a little older will enjoy Benjamin's Book, in which he records his adventures with his twin sister and small brother, as well as Children of the Soil, the story of some Swedish children who live on a farm and find their work very hard until they win the friendship of a Tomte man.

For older boys and girls there is a new life of Nathaniel Hawthorne, by his own granddaughter, Hildegarde Hawthorne. Even grown-ups are enjoying this. If you have read The Three Musketeers, you will enjoy the new adventures of D'Artagnan, which M. Pemjean, the author, tells us are not entirely fictional, but based on the experiences of a real Captain of the King's Guard in the 17th century in France. The sea adventures of Capt. E. Pryce Mitchell since the days of clipper ships will also find many enthusiastic readers among the boys, while the girls will like the Careers of Cynthia, the story of a girl who longed to become an artist. In the Herdboy of Hungary we have also in story form the early life of a famous Hungarian sculptor, Alexander Finta, who has been working in New York since 1923. Boys, especially, will enjoy this cowboy story of another land. Then there are two delightful stories of Indian days in our own North America, With Hearts Courageous and the Trail of the Ragged Fox.

If you like to explore, there is one more book you will enjoy, whether you be young or old, boy or girl. It is called, "Seeing the Unseen," which shows us how to get the most pleasure out of a microscope. With its wonderful illustrations of objects photographed through a microscope, it opens our eyes to the wonders and intricacies of the most commonplace objects.

The grown-ups have not been neglected either as the following list can testify:

Beck. The Great Romantic, a story of the great Pepys and the Merrie England of his day.

Edmonds. Erie Water, third story by this student of early New York history.

Gabriel Over the White House, what a future president might do under certain circumstances.

Gale. Papa La Fleur (And his two restless, charming daughters)

Halper. Union Suare, with the lives of those who move about it.

Hull. Hardy Perennial (They endure best.)

James Will. All in the day's riding.

Laing. The Seach Witch.

Lane. Let the Hurricane Roar.

Lutz. The Ransom.

Miln. Pong Wee's Harvest.

Mitchell, R. C. The Legend of Susan Dane, a alifornia story.

Norris, K. Walls of Gold.

White, S. E. Ranchero, a sequel to the Long Rifle.

Wilder, Mother of Four. The story of a family by the sister of Thornton Wilder.

Williams, . Fog.

Young. Jenny Wren. Another good story by the author of Miss Mole.

Coward. Cavalcade.

Kaufman and Ferber. Dinner at Eight.

Reisenberg. Log of the Sea. His own adventure.

Powell. Yonder Lies Adventure.

Luhan. Intimate Memories (of childhood and girlhood.

Gay. Break Your Leash (and travel to out-of-the-way places.)

Parker. German Summer.

Grattan. The Three Jameses.

GAME OF BADMINTON ORIGINATED IN INDIA

Monterey, March 30. — Like polo, with which it is paired in popularity, Badminton is a game that originated in India. While the horseback sport was started by the eastern rajahs themselves, British residents were responsible for the brilliant, high speed net game now rapidly coming to the front in this country.

Badminton was first played and developed at the garrison in Poona, India, and was introduced into England about 1870. Played extensively throughout the British Dominions, Badminton is of major importance in sport loving Canada. Championships at Quebec have been played before crowds of upwards of ten thousand, and the British Columbia matches have set a record of six thousand spectators.

What ice hockey is in the category of team sports, the high speed net game has proved to be in the list of individual contests. It is similar to tennis in several points and yet differs from it widely. A little raquet, capable of incredible speed and deftness is used. The feathered bird which replaces the ball travels at terrific and constantly changing velocity. There are no ground strokes in Badminton, every shot being played in the air as a volley, smash or lob. Scoring in Badminton is only achieved in offensive play; the best that the defending side can do is to wrest the serve from its opponents and capturing it, attempt to score themselves. Like tennis, Badminton is a game of maneuvering and outgeneraling an opponent into a position where the attacking side can put-the-bird-away with a killing smash.

HOW WELL DO YOU KNOW $2.50 GOLD COIN

From N. Y. Variety, Mar 14

A patron walked up to the booth of a Middletown, N. Y., theatre, and asking for a ticket, gave the cashier a $2.50 gold piece.

The girl had never seen one and called the manager into consultation. He looked at it for awhile and then advised the girl to give the patron a ticket and $3 in change. Why he did it is a local mystery.

PT. LOBOS FEATURED IN SIERRA CLUB BULLETIN

In observance of the establishment of Point Lobos state park, the Sierra Club Bulletin in its current issue, just off the press, publishes photographs and articles pertaining to this scenic area, in whose preservation the Sierra club participated.

"The Cypresses of Monterey," the feature article, is by Willis Linn Jepson professor of botany in the University of California, and long president of the California Botanical Society.

"No other tree on earth has so narrow a natural range," comments Dr. Jepson. "The Monterey Cypress, clinging to the edge of the continental shelf, is, as a species, the most dramatic witness of past changes on the western shore-line. No other tree from this consideration, is so deserving of the protection which can be afforded by enclosure within a park sanctuary."

Photographs of Monterey cypress trees and of Point Lobos by Gabriel Moulin and Ansel E. Adams illustrate the articles. A poem on Point Lobos by Robinson Jeffers and an appreciation by Ella Young are included in the bulletin, as is a statement by William E. Colby, chairman of the California state park commission, reporting the preservation of Point Lobos as a state park and urging the completion of the project by acquisition of scenic acreage on its northeastern border.—Monterey Herald.

Are You Doing Your Bit For the Needy

The matter of the reason for Carmel Dollars seems to have been lost sight of. They were issued to relieve UNEMPLOYMENT and to keep the citizens from being called upon constantly for donations.

The Carmel Dollars were issued to the amount of $500. But so far they have seemed to circulate mainly among the merchants. Of nine stamps on one "Dollar" four were placed thereon by one merchant.

The burden of caring for the unemployed must not rest on the merchant alone. Carmel people are called upon to ask for these dollars in change. It is true that it is a little more trouble to add the stamp and cancel it, but if anyone should come to our door and ask for a donation of three cents we would donate it without a moment's thought, even though the time it would take to get the amount from our purses much more time than that required in placing the stamp.

For the sake of humanity, let us help in this project.

The second issue of $500 will be made soon. There will be many more in circulation. The merchant alone cannot handle all of them. Will not the residents help in this undertaking?

Dr. W. G. Hughes of Madera, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Betsy, was a guest over the week-end at the home of his brother, Dr. J. L. Hughes and wife on Mountain View.

BURGLARS ENTER HOUSE AND TAKE VALUABLES

Using candles and matches for lights, burglars ransacked the summer home of Dr. Lucia Lane, San Mateo, on the Point, some time previous to last Friday at which time neighbors, noticing the doors were open, investigated. A drawer of silver, two electric stoves and aluminum ware were taken by the thieves.

The aluminum ware was later located about a block and a half from the house.

AGAIN, THOSE TREES

A San Francisco paper publishes a "Lamento" from a Honor Viedt, relative to the trimming of those unsightly cypress trees on San Antonio street. Honor says Carmel needs a Joyce Kilmer, also takes exception to the manner in which the trees are being hacked, sawed and mutilated. Says there is a wave of tree destruction sweeping Carmel.

This denunciation of tree trimming was brought about by those charity members of Carmel's city council, appointing a paint splasher instead of a horticulturist to supervise the work.

Three years ago, the Carmel Tree Sobbers were loud in their lamntations about the trees being ruined, when the council, at the solicitation of property owners on the East side of San Antonio street and on both sides of Carmelo street, were asked that the trees be trimmed so as not to obstruct their view of the ocean.

Instead of a Carmel-by-the-Sea, it was getting to be Carmel- behind-the-Trees.

The trimming at that time was done with the use of long and short ladders, no conformity to the work.

The trees were not ruined, greatly to the disappointment of the tree huggers, they grew and thrived wonderfully, so much in fact that residents on the street could not see what their neighbors were up to on the opposite side.

It was then that the Charity members of the Council made the appointment and the palette juggler started to supervise the mutilation. The trees were axed from the bottom up, the residents on the street now can play peek-a-boo with their neighbors and also get a slight glimpse of the ocean.

A property owner on the street waited on the curb for the tree hackers and prevailed upon them to give the two trees in front of his property a mushroom effect so that his view of the briny deep would not be screened by foliage.

The trees need topping and the Council should see that someone is appointed that understands the shaping of cypress trees, then there is a possibility that those graveyard ornaments will be put into a somewhat symmetrical form.

ROBERT H. DURIEE.

Dr. John Haman of the Stanford clinic in San Francisco was a guest Sunday of D. H. Staniford in Carmel.

The Carmel Masons and Stars enjoyed a dinner at the club house Saturday night, and what a dinner! Not just a potato salad and sandwiches, but hot Spanish beans, hot spaghetti, meat loaf, and all kinds of salads, cakes and coffee and hot biscuits! Everybody provided the eats and all present did justice to the meal. The long table in the dining room was filled.

After supper different games of cards were enjoyed and Mrs. Lawrence, of Oakland, a guest of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Warren, delightfully entertained with story and song.

"LADIES OF THE JURY"

MARCH 30, 31 AND APR. 1

Ladies and locked doors and lots of fun and excitement is the set-up of "Ladies of the Jury" which starts Thursday night at the Carmel Community Playhouse. Helen Ware, Broadway star, Hollywood figure and a resident of Carmel, heads a cast of twenty popular Peninsula players in this tumultous comedy.

"Ladies of the Jury," offers entertainment for audiences with a diverse interest in the theatre. The murder trial in the first act is down-right thrilling, and there are plenty of moments in the drama that tingle with suspense. Through it all, however, is a swift and brilliant torrent of good natured nonsense. Locked up in that jury room, twelve strangely assorted human beings battle and bluff and laugh their way to a final curtain that is a surprising, if inevitable triumph.

Helen Ware's part, "Mrs. Livingstone Crane," is a comedy gem. Created by Mrs. Fiske, it was subsequently played on the Coast by Mary Boland. It was with Miss Boland that Helen Ware shared honors in "The Night of June 13" a memorable movie of a small community suddenly involved in a murder trial.

Opening Thursday, "Ladies of the Jury" will play only three performances this week-end, concluding its run Saturday night. In support of Miss Ware are: Galt Bell, Gordon Knoles, Chester Sheppard, Rannie Cockburn, Ross Cowen, Sibyl Leonard, Larry Grenier, Marion Todd, Sammy Sampson, Richard Masten, Catherine Van Dyke, Samuel Etheridge, Fern Hyde, Bert Bruno, Hildreth Masten, Charlie Sayers, Ed Files and Holly Smith.

BURGLARS ENTER HOUSE AND TAKE VALUABLES

Using candles and matches for lights, burglars ransacked the summer home of Dr. Lucia Lane, San Mateo, on the Point, some time previous to last Friday at which time neighbors, noticing the doors were open, investigated. A drawer of silver, two electric stoves and aluminum ware were taken by the thieves.

The aluminum ware was later located about a block and a half from the house.

Mr. Young will be remembered as the young hotel clerk in "The Wet Parade." He is under a five-year contract with M.G.M. and has recently finished "The Kid from Spain."

SUITCASE STOLEN FROM CAR SATURDAY EVENING

To lose their suitcases from theft Saturday evening and to recover the case Sunday afternoon, with a valuable fur coat and a pair of shoes missing and later to recover the coat was the experience of Mrs. Robert Vermilya and Marian McCarter of San Francisco guests of Mrs. Coone at Casanova and Third.

They had driven down from the city and had parked their car in front of the Coone residence and the case was taken about seven in the evening. Constable Gus Englund was notified and began immediate search. Sunday afternoon when Dr. Phillips was picking flowers in Hatton Fields, he was startled to come upon an opened suitcase and immediately called Mr. Englund who returned the property to the owners. The coat and a pair of shoes were missing.

Four Seaside youths were arrested Wednesday, after Sheriff Kinloch had received a tip that they were involved in the robbery. The premises of one suspect were searched and the coat found buried in the yard.

Three of the lads, 12, 14, and 16 confessed to several robberies and stated that the oldest one, 18, had directed them in their work.

John Wood, clerk at the Carmel post office, has been taking his furlough during the past week. The end of March sees the end of the furlough season.

MISSIONARY PIE OPENED AT MEETING WEDNESDAY

A very enjoyable meeting was held Wednesday afternoon of last week when the Carmel Missionary society met in the Guild room of the Episcopalian church. The topic for the afternoon was "Results of Missionary Activities," with Mrs. Willis White and Mrs. E. L. Taylor as speakers.

Mrs. Taylor reviewed Dr. Spears' Comments on "Rethinking Missions" and Mrs. White gave the stories of the lives of two great missionaries. Her talk on Dr. William Wanless was very much appreciated since Dr. Wanless, probably the greatest medical missionary, visited in Carmel two years ago. Twice he had been knighted by King George for his labors. Dr. Wanless died a few months ago in Glendale.

Dr. Henry Higginbotham, her other subject, will be heard over the radio soon and Mrs. White's talk will make his speech more interesting to those who were present.

A very clever stunt was that of the "Missionary Pie", credit for which goes to Miss Margaret Clark. Like the "Song of Sixpence", birds were baked in a pie, though they were blue birds instead of black birds. Then when the ladies "stuck in a thumb", as did Little Jack Horner, instead of a plum each pulled out a blue bird bearing on its wing a message from foreign fields.

Appropriate music was furnished for the afternoon by the Rev. T. Harold Grimshaw, and Mrs. David Nixon, president of the society, had charge of the program.

MISS AUSTRAL PRESENTS BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE

"A brilliant, dramatic voice," "an exquisite voice," "a voice of great volume and beauty," these were some of the adjectives used by those fortunate enough to hear Miss Florence Austral in the final number of the winter series of concerts given by the Carmel Music Society in Sunset auditorium Saturday evening.

Seldom has anyone ever heard the flute as Amadio played it, with its exceptionally clear tones and expression.

Miss Austral's program was the last of a series of four, the other three being Vienna Boy Choir, Michel Penha, 'cellist and the Monterey Peninsula Orchestra. Each was an outstanding program and highly appreciated.

The summer season will present the following:

June 16 — Pro Arte String Quartet.

June 30—Pro Arte String Quartet.

July 29—Monterey Peninsula Orchestra.

August 5 — Neah-Kah-Nie String Quartet.

August 19 — Neah-Kah-Nie String Quartet.

August 26—Monterey Peninsula Orchestra.

All concerts to be given in the Sunset School Auditorium.

AN APPEAL TO REASON

(Political Advertisement)

You may be an average citizen of Carmel. You may be a builder, a fellow-writer, an artist, a school-teacher, a laborer, a businessman, or what have you; but before you cast your vote in the Sunset School election tomorrow I would earnestly ask your attention.

I'm a free agent and, being such, I think I can see both sides of the school election and perhaps be able to clear up for you the much be-fogged and smoke-screened school campaign.

There are two sides in the campaign both holding fast to certain memories. One side remembers only that their side, under the leadership of two or three well informed women, made over the small village school which existed here some six or seven years ago into the school it is today, with fine buildings, excellent equipment, a staff of highly paid teachers, and a high standard of achievement among its pupils.

But the other side also has its memories. It remembers that a few years ago a bond issue was proposed involving some $75,000 of the taxpayers' money. On the promise of the sponsors of this issue that they contemplated no auditorium beyond a simple and capacious structure of moderate cost, the bonds carried. And what was the result? A building which has been called a "Class B Theatre" was erected at a cost of more than $40,000. Two class rooms were left unfinished—and remain unfinished today, notwithstanding the fact that the rooms of the Sunset school are overcrowded.

And we remember other things. When the town last year, as protest against the extravagance and poor judgment of the school board, refused to reelect one of the members of that board and put Mrs. Taylor in her place, the report was spread by the defeated party that Mrs. Taylor was elected by the "rabble" of Carmel.

I am proud to have been numbered among this so-called "rabble." I am proud to still be with them. Believe it or not, this "rabble" is thoroughly interested in our public school. It is not only thinking of the taxpayer's side of the question, it has the good of the children at heart and would have been glad to cooperate with the other side to find a candidate that should represent the wishes of all groups in Carmel. But such cooperation was evidently not desired as Mr. Ewig was picked by the very individuals whose policies were defeated in last year's election although none of them signed Mr. Ewig's announcement of candidacy.

As we were in no way approached in the matter of candidates it was necessary to find a candidate of our own. And so we tried to find one so fine and broad and beyond commercial suspicion as to be impregnable. It was I who asked Mrs. Rendtorff if she would run. And I am proud of the fact that she consented.

With all due respect to Mr. Ewig—we have fifty such. But there is only one Mrs. Rendtorff. She has the time and inclination, the tact and the firmness to deal with the problems she may be called upon to face.

Mrs. Rendtorff takes office with neither strings attached to her nor specious promises impossible of fulfillment. She has for more than twenty years been beloved and respected by all Carmelites who have known her. The fact that she's a woman and has suffered from some heart ailment shouldn't militate against her. The appeal to sex is surely in bad taste.

Work for her; vote for her. It's a sacred duty.

EASTER BUNNIES AND CHIX MADE IN CARMEL

A clever Easter window, that of Romy Lane's. Bunnies, chicks, ducks, eggs, even Mother Bunny with her basket on her arm. And they are not like the old fashioned Easter candies that had to be taken from the youngsters lest they eat them and become poisoned, for they are really to eat, after, of course, the new has worn off. They are filled with a delicious cream candy and of course you can see the rich chocolate covering.

Mr. and Mrs. Romine are quite proud of their display as everything was made in their own candy kitchen.

MRS. TAYLOR MAKES STATEMENT TO VOTERS

(Political Advertisement)

I do not hesitate to say again the people of this district will be fortunate if Mrs. Rendtorff is placed on the Board of Trustees. She is a woman who thinks independently, yet is always willing to consider the opinions of others.

Having been associated with her in club and welfare work for several years I know Mrs. Rendtorff, in character to be fair, honest and just—in business, keen clear, accurate and far seeing—in sympathy, big and broad. Added to all this, she has the school background, a present knowledge of schools through close association, and a progressive outlook.

It is to be hoped the voters of this district will place Mrs. Rendtorff where children, parents and taxpayers will have the benefit of her unusual ability.

DAISY B. TAYLOR.

FIVE HUNDRED DOLARS

Five hundred dollars has already been appropriated by the Board of Trustees of Sunset School for Transportation for the children from Pebble Beach—to be furnished on request.

Any statement from a candidate that he will furnish transportation is misleading.
